INSPIREDESIGN

innovative vision for today's hotel

"ONE OF THE BALEARIC ISLANDS, MENORCA IS LIKE THE LAND THAT TIME FORGOT… HEAVENLY."

"I love how the Satco G40 Incandescent Large Light Bulb can be what makes a fixture work," she said. "Any other smaller bulb in certain fixtures would almost disappear."

Shaggy Glamazon Carpet from Stanton Carpet, made into an area rug for this project is "like walking on a cloud," she said. "It's so soft and thick. It's my absolute favorite."

"I love this Blu Dot Strut Table for its versatility," said Fisher. "I typically use it for a desk. It's simple and clean and comes in many colors to fit your needs."

Jennifer Fisher, founder of Austin-based design studio J. Fisher Interiors, knew she wanted to be a designer from a very young age.

"When I was just a kid, whenever I walked into a room, I was always thinking about how I would lay it out," she said. "I would do this in all kinds of spaces that weren't homes, but I was imagining them being homes. I realized I could make this happen after I gained several years of experience as a producer of events. I put that project management experience to work and found a job doing exactly what I loved, and it still doesn't feel like work."

She has spent more than a decade developing her expertise in the design of large-scale commercial and residential projects. Her background working alongside designers Waldo Fernandez and Madeline Stuart inspired her to start her own firm.

"Sonos speakers are great—so great that even audiophiles use them," she said. "From the Move, which you can take anywhere, to the Beam, you get great bass and lovely sounding highs, and their price is pretty good, too."

"I love the Nature's Grip Rug Pad for its grip and because it's nontoxic and made from natural rubber and plant fibers," said Fisher.

"The Fortis Vitrina Two-Handle Widespread Bathroom Sink Faucet in Brushed Gold is sleek, modern and beautiful," Fisher said. "It works well in all types of aesthetics and cleans up really well."
